

Why Karpinski Engineering?

Karpinski Engineering (KE) has demonstrated how highly it values SMPS in four key ways: We have committed time, provided leadership, shared knowledge, and supported SMPS NEO financially.

Time

This program year, seven KE staff members (including three partners) attended 14 unique programs – for a total of 39 attendances.

Leadership

Two KE employees stand out for their leadership within SMPS NEO: Jenn Wahl and Lauren Lord. Both serve on SMPS NEO's board.

- Jenn is President-Elect and Mentorship Co-Chair. In addition to planning the mentorship events for the year, she organized the October lunch program and helped organize the Meds & Eds program. This year, Jenn also earned her CPSM certification, demonstrating her commitment to SMPS and the AEC industry.
- Lauren is Director-at-Large and Communications Co-Chair. She is responsible for spreading the word about the chapter and its events. She puts together the weekly newsletter and e-blasts, creates graphics and flyers for each event, and promotes SMPS NEO events on LinkedIn.

Knowledge

As leaders, Jenn and Lauren both contribute their knowledge and expertise to SMPS NEO. In addition, KE President Jim Cicero was a panelist for a lunch panel, and Sarah Rozman was a panelist for a mentorship event.

Money

KE supports SMPS NEO financially as an annual sponsor. We also provide indirect financial support, with our staff working on SMPS projects as part of their work responsibilities.

With the depth of our contributions, Karpinski Engineering has demonstrated its commitment to SMPS NEO.
